

Stefan Hyttfors

Stefan Hyttfors is an acclaimed futurist, author and global speaker focused on future trends. Stefan has a background as a journalist and economist, today he is one of Europe's leading voices on disruptive technologies, behavioral change and next generation leadership. His presentations are tailor made but always with a solid foundation about sustainability, globalisation and digitalisation. The feedback is always a mix of "inspiring and entertaining with an important sense of urgency".

According to Stefan the future is not to be predicted, it is to be created. His vision is to help companies and individuals embrace disruptive change on a global scale to create a better future. Stefan has been awarded the Swedish Speaker of the Year twice.

"I believe in being open and curious"

References & Press

"Stefan is a combination of a stand up comedian and thoughtful key note speaker. He delivers energy and laughs while at the same time making you reflect upon today's challenges and how to tackle the unknown future. We really appreciated his key note and I highly recommend him if you want an inspiring talk about change. He was also very easy to work with."

Alexander Westerdahl - Spotify

"Stefan Hyttfors brought great inspiration to our session and the feedback from the worldwide audience was fantastic - combining the evolution of technology and what this means for us as individuals, employees and leaders to have a healthy mindset in this world of constant change, opened this people week with an inspiring and embracing way to view change!"
